

RICHARD TARRAN MVO

During 16 years in the Royal Navy, Richard worked for the Royal Family, served as the Propulsion Officer of HMS Ark Royal and conducted aid work in Nepal and Montserrat. He was Project Manager at the Commonwealth Games and also worked with excluded young people on a ground-breaking youth exclusion project in East Manchester.

A Chartered Marine Engineer by trade who chose to focus on people and the soft skills of leadership. A qualified Mountain Leader and certified Coach Practitioner (INLPTA) who focuses on people's personal development in the workplace and in the great outdoors. He has also worked for Smith & Nephews pharmaceuticals, Taywood-Santa Fe (offshore gas rig construction division of Taylor Woodrow) and Vickers Offshore.

Richard is a very proficient executive coach and is certified to deliver Myers-Briggs (MBTI), the Strength Deployment Inventory (SDI) and the Margerison-McCann Team Management Profile (TMS) as well as many other tools. He is a Neuro-Linguistic Programming (NLP) Practitioner as well as being an associate trainer for The Register of Engineers for Disaster Relief (RedR).

Richard has a plethora of stimulating stories from expeditions, his time with the Royal Family, his Royal Navy deployments, time working in Hong Kong as well as CSR style project work from South America, Africa and Asia as well as the 87 countries he has so far visited.

His experience has included blue chips and SMEs globally in the sectors of banking, petrochemicals, construction services, high street retail, defence, the public sector, health and several aid agencies.

Chris Weeks - Director of DHL's Global Disaster Response Teams said:

"Many thanks for your great course, delivered with thought and passion for the subject."

This is what DHL said Richard's recent bespoke course delivered to energize, motivate and train the new Airport Emergency Team in Dubai and Disaster Response Teams in Singapore and Miami. The teams were set up as a result of a partnership agreement between the United Nations (UNDP & UNOCHA) and Deutsche Post World Net (DPWN) to deliver logistics support at the inbound airport following any sudden onset disaster. DPWN are the parent company of DHL.